

Deborah Coolidge

October 24, 1960 - October 2, 2022

Deborah (Debbie) Sue Hurley was born on October 24th, 1960 to Billy Jack and Joan (Dunn) Hurley in Clarendon Hills, Illinois.

Debbie lived a life full of love, beginning with her parents and sister Diana and blossoming when she met the love of her life, John Coolidge, in high school. They married in 1982 at the church of Clarendon Hills and had three children- Jenny, Michelle and Austin, and two granddaughters- Charlotte (Jenny), and Audrey (Michelle).

Debbie's life's work was caring for and educating children, beginning with her own as a dedicated mother, and then as a long-time elementary school teacher. She earned her master's degree in administration and won several teaching awards over her long career in recognition of the impact she made on countless children.

Debbie was a gifted maker who handmade elaborate Halloween costumes for her kids every year among countless other treasures, traveled all over the world with her husband, and archived her family's life in extensive scrapbooks and carefully curated artifacts from the generations that came before. She was a talented, creative, loving, hardworking and unforgettable person.

She was so truly loved and will be so truly missed.

“ Mrs. Coolidge was a great 4th grade teacher. I had her my self and I loved her we would always at the end of the day look at pictures of her grand daughter. She always seemed so happy and she was always there for our class. Whenever we need her she was there. Everyone loved her as our teacher. I will forever miss her. 🕊️

“ She was my 4th grade teacher about 5 years ago. I will never forget her smile, welcoming us into class each day. Even in middle school I went to visit her after school every week. She never failed to make me smile, she was there for me when others weren't. I'd tell her everything and she was an amazing friend. I will forever miss her.
