“ I was so sorry to hear about Rich. He was such a good man, father, husband, friend. He was always so upbeat. I used to hear Peggy talk about the things your family did together and I thought how much fun you all had together. That's such a gift. My thoughts and prayers are with your family! - Michelle Soderstrom

“ If I was called upon to speak at Dad's memorial service, it would have gone like this.....

I had the pleasure of knowing Dad for about 15 years; a drop in the bucket compared to some of you!

It was a privilege to get to know him. It has been very inspiring to see how many people loved and cared about him. He touched so many people's lives; not just friends and family, but neighbors, co-workers, and everyone who spent any time with him. He had an aura that made people want to be near him.....or maybe it was just the beard and his resemblance to Santa Clause!

The past few weeks we had a few fun conversations revolving around food. Some of his favorites that we talked about:

-Reuben sandwiches (with Thousand Island Dressing - a must!)

-Filet Mignon (well done, or as some would call it "ruined")

-Bailey's on the rocks

-Coffee (with creamer and quite a few Splendas!)

-Pizza (I'm not sure what his favorite toppings were, just that the last ingredient was usually, "hey honey, would you pass the salt?!")

Over the last few weeks while Dad was in the hospital, Krista and I took turns bringing him whatever snacks he had a craving for including Kit-Kats, Reese's peanut butter cups, Wendy's Frosty's, and something he had not tried before, which turned out to be one of his favorites: The Starbucks Frappuccino. I think some of the nurses actually believed that we thought the higher the glucose, the better. 250?! No problem! We can do better than that! Here Dad, have some more!! That was good for a few laughs!

On that note, lets lift our hands and have a toast with our imaginary Bailey's or Frappuccino To Rich! Cheers!

“ Santa! He was the skinniest Santa ever, but I always had a great time helping him get dressed and making sure he had the cow bell to ring. As we got older, I loved that Cousin Rich added his own "flair" to Santa and make it fun for all of us.

“Dad telling the story of how he first fell for Mom was so cute! He saw her across Silver Maple Lake in Phelps, WI and thought "Wow! Look at that beautiful red-head!" It wasn't the first time he ever saw her, but was the first time fireworks went off.
